For justice and development in Sierra Leone

As the country's civil war ends, UNDEF is helping to build a more just and prosperous Sierra Leone. The UN is working with the government to support the rule of law, human rights and the development of the country's institutions.

Defending freedom of expression in Colombia

Freedom of expression is a fundamental right, and UNDEF is working to defend it in Colombia. The UN is supporting the government to strengthen its legal framework and to ensure that journalists and other civil society actors can exercise their rights without fear of harassment or violence.

Ministers of Community of Democracies highlight UNDEF role

At the Summit of Ministers of the Community of Democracies in Washington, DC, in April 2013, UNDEF was highlighted as a key partner in supporting democratic development in Latin America and the Caribbean. The UN is working with the governments of the region to promote the rule of law, human rights and the development of the institutions of democracy.
