ICPD Beyond 2014 Monitoring Framework:
International Migration Indicators

Ann Pawliczko

United Nations Population Fund

Framework Reaffirms Core Message of ICPD Programme of Action

ICPD Monitoring Framework Guided by Human Rights Framework

Focuses on measuring commitments of duty bearers to their obligations

Includes extent to which holders' rights are met

Principles of Proposed Monitoring Framework

Small number of indicators

Focus on indicators on efforts

Address equality and non-discrimination

Illustrative Indicators:

Objective and Area of Measurement

Promote the Developmental Benefits of International Migration

Illustrative Indicators: Input/Structure

Existence of laws that ensure equal access to health services for international migrants

Number of bilateral and regional agreements on the recognition of qualifications of international migrants

Number of bilateral and regional agreements signed and implemented on portability of social security

Illustrative Indicators:
Effort/Process

Number of State-led programmes facilitating temporary or permanent return of skilled and qualified diaspora members

Average cost of transfer of remittances at both origin and destination ends

Indicators on costs of migrant recruitment

An indicator on the cost of international migration

Illustrative Indicators:
Outcome/Impact

Proportion of international migrants accessing health services

Proportion of international migrants having access to formal financial banking and remittance services

An indicator on the well-being of international migrants

An indicator on human trafficking   (

Next Steps

Review the proposed indicators in terms of formulation and recommended steps to validate the measurability of indicators that are not yet systematically collect01 n.ieec5i pns5q i01 Ta

Next Steps: Expected Results

Agreed upon final list of indicators

Operational definitions, coverage, update cycle and parent organization/agency

Recommendations for future work and clear research agenda to develop/improve indicators and/or data collection

Monitoring framework should be translated into an action work plan