

Despite successes achieved in education for women, progress in some areas still lag behind that of males. The share of women in wage employment in the non-agriculture sector has reflected steady progress since the 1990s and is close to parity at 49 per cent in 2007. Women's representation on the Boards in both the public and private sector is grossly below par with that of males. Females are also far behind their male counterparts in all areas of political representation at national and local levels.

Madam Chair,

In concluding, I should point out that Jamaica is making steady progress on a number of the indicators in relation to the goals for Ensuring Environmental Sustainability and

. e . n i s r e