

Mr President,

The discussion regarding a Global Compact on Responsibility Sharing for Refugees stems from the perception that, despite the global nature of forced displacement, the impact associated with the admission of refugees has not been evenly distributed across countries. Data from the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees indicates that developing countries have disproportionately taken this burden and currently host 86% of all refugees – or

A balanced sharing of responsibilities therefore calls for two kinds of action: to

In 2014, Latin America and the Caribbean took a major step by adopting the Barril Declaration and Plan of Action during the Cartagena 120 Conference held