

Mr. Chairman,

Diplomatic and law since they protect cooperate and peacefully of both 1961 and 1968 principles governing di developing and strength other posts, diplomatic and consular missions may employ 'all appropriate means'.

Information technology has significantly evolved from the 1980s to our days. Today, communications are no longer dependent on physical support and circulate through technologically sophisticated channels. Archives and documents exist not only on paper, but also on digital platforms. Regardless of all these changes, it remains beyond doubt that diplomatic and consular communications, archives and documents must be protected both offline and online.

Mr. Chairman,

My delegation remains convinced that resolutions adopted under this agenda item need to adequately address the challenges faced in promoting all dimensions of the protection, security and safety of diplomatic and consular missions. Brazil stands ready to continue to