most recently, resolution 73/204 of 20 December 2018 related to the protection of victims of armed conflicts.

A form of institutionalizing protective measures for persons in armed conflict settings is the strengthening of the mandate of NHRIs to include International Humanitarian Law (IHL) as part of its human rights agenda. To fulfill this mandate, the CHRP created the Center for Crisis, Conflict, and Humanitarian Protection (CCCHP), which acts as the CHRP's focal unit on IHL and protection of human rights in conflict settings. The CCCHP releases reports, information materials, and comments and inputs on issues in relation to IHL, including but not limited to displacements caused by armed conflict.

The CHRP has also been consistently participating in the creation of campaigns and programs of the National Ad Hoc Committee on International Humanitarian Law created under Presidential Executive Order No. 134, s. 1999. This Committee convenes different government agencies and civil society organizations to craft projects aiming to promote IHL through the celebration of the IHL Day every 12th of August. The CHRP currently supports the institutionalization of the Ad Hoc Committee that will provide its members better opportunities to mainstream the IHL advocacy.

The CHRP also performs investigative functions as regards IHL violations, in support of the country's obligation to uphold IHL. In 2009, the Philippine Congress enacted Republic Act: 9851, or an "Act Defining and Penalizing Crimes Against International Humanitarian Law, Genocide, and other Crimes Against Humanity, Organizing Jurisdiction, Designating Special Courts, and for Related Purposes". Pursuant to this Republic Act, the CHRP is one of the national institutions/agencies in the country tasked to investigate violations of IHL, genocide, and other crimes against humanity.

In Section 18, paragraph 2 and 3 of RA 9851, it was specifically provided that "the Supreme Court shall designate special courts to try cases involving crimes punishable under this Act. For these cases, the COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS, the DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE and the PHILIPPINE NATIONAL POLICE or other concerned law enforcement agencies shall designate efforts to resolve or prevent conflict. It recognizes that there can be no sustainable development without peace and no peace without sustainable development. In this endeavor, the CHRP commits itself to a whole-of-agency approach in ensuring that human rights are protected, promoted, respected, and fulfilled even in situations of armed conflict. The CHR through its partnership with the Philippine Statistics Authority has been coordinating closely to develop protocols for tracking the Philippine government's commitment to SDG 16.1.2 on measuring conflict related deaths per 100, 000 population. The Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights has conducted a series of capacity building activities for both CHR and PSA staff to identify the methodologies and roles of the two agencies in developing the data ecosystem for the aforementioned SDG indicator. In particular, the emerging partnerships foresees CHR as becoming the national data provided for SDG 16.1.2.
