the Strengthening of the Role of the Organization - 78th Session of the General Assembly

New York, 20 October 2023

Mr. Chair,

5. Let us also recall that the struggle of peoples under foreign and alien occupation for self-determination and national liberation is legitimate under international law and they have the right to use all possible means in this struggle to achieve their freedom. It is the suppression of this struggle, which is illegal. Under the Charter, States have the right of self-defense against attacks on their sovereignty and territorial integrity. Yet, a State which is in forcible occupation of a foreign territory, cannot justify its actions

- i) The Security Council should be comprehensively reformed through the Inter-Governmental Negotiations (IGN) process already underway to make it more transparent, more representative, more accountable, more democratic and more effective.
- ii) Since the General Assembly is the most representative organ of the United Nations, it is vital to utilize its full potential to achieve
