

Reaffirms that Member States must ensure that any measures taken to combat terrorism comply with all their obligations under international law, in particular international human rights, refugee and humanitarian law, underscores that effective counter-terrorism measures and respect for human rights, fundamental freedoms and the rule of law are complementary and mutually reinforcing, and are an essential part of a successful counter-terrorism effort, and notes the importance of respect for the rule of law so as to effectively combat terrorism.

Reaffirms further that, notwithstanding the real and significant achievements of the last 10 years, much remains to be done at the national, regional and international levels to fully implement all provisions of resolution 1373 (2001).

Urges all Member States to ensure zero-tolerance towards terrorism and take urgent action to prevent and combat terrorism in all its forms and manifestations through the full and effective implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) and other relevant international instruments relating to terrorism; and further urges Member States, consistent with their obligations under resolution 1373 (2001), to:

- Prevent those who finance, plan, facilitate or commit terrorist acts from using their respective territories for those purposes against other States or their citizens and to deny safe haven to persons engaged in these activities
- Bring to justice those who finance, plan, support, facilitate, or commit terrorist acts, in particular noting the principle of “extradite or prosecute”, in accordance with international law, including human rights law
- Enhance cooperation in bringing terrorists to justice, including cooperation in the prevention, investigation, and prosecution of terrorists and offenses
- Prevent the movement of terrorists, including the supply of weapons, through effective border controls
- Ensure that funds for charitable purposes are not diverted or utilized for terrorist purposes
- Develop comprehensive and integrated national counterterrorism strategies that fully comply with the rule of law; fully respect the dignity and human rights of all; and reach out to, and actively involve all parts of society and all communities.
- Develop and implement comprehensive strategies to effectively address the conditions conducive to the spread of terrorism including radicalization and recruitment for terrorism and take necessary and appropriate steps to prevent and counter incitement to commit terrorist acts, including those motivated by extremism and intolerance, within a framework of dialogue and understanding and in accordance with their international legal obligations.

Underlines that specialized international and regional organizations have an important role to play in building an understanding of the terrorist threat; in facilitating international cooperation in the field of counter-terrorism, especially through the provision of technical and related assistance as requested.

Resolves to monitor and assist to ensure the full implementation of resolution 1373 (2001), with the support of CTED. In this regard, the Committee and CTED, as directed by the Security Council, will continue to focus on ways and means to address identified gaps in the implementation of the resolution. In particular, CTED, acting in close cooperation with other members of the CTITF; international, regional and subregional organizations; and bilateral and multilateral assistance providers, will strengthen its role in facilitating technical assistance aimed at promoting full implementation of the resolution.
