

By the late fifties, therefore, codification efforts in the two strands – "substantive" and "jurisdictional" – had effectively stopped. In 1968 and 1974, the Secretary -General attempted to bring the attention of the General Assem bly back to these issues, and the International Law Commission did the same in 1977, initially to no

