54th Session of the Commission on the Status of Women

New York
March 5, 2010

Mr. Chairman
Excellencies,
Ladies and Gentlemen

It is an honor to present the statement on behalf of the Royal Government of Kingdom of Cambodia at the 54th Session of the Commission on the Status of Women.

Mr. President, I endorse the statement made by the distinguished Permanent Representative of Yemen on behalf of G-77 and China.

Since our meeting in 2005, further progress has been made in the implementation of the Beijing Platform for Action. These achievements in relation to the priorities of our meeting today, include:

- Increased enrolment rates for girls at all levels with gender equality in primary education; however, the gender gap at upper secondary education is narrowing from year to year.
- Improved access for girls and women to health services, including reproductive health and HIV/AIDS prevention.
- Women have achieved parity in wage employment in the agriculture and industry sectors.
- Cambodia has established legal protection mechanisms to combat violence against women and trafficking. The law on women's rights to property, following consultation with multiple stakeholders, improvements are made made in data collection and monitoring. Key legislation includes the Law on the Prevention of Domestic Violence and Protection of Victims (2005), the Law on Suppression of Human Trafficking and Sexual Exploitation (2008), and the National Action Plan to Combat Violence against Women (2009).
- Greater awareness of women's rights and gender equality.
- Women's participation in decision-making at all levels has increased. In the 2008 election, Deputy Governors in 7 provinces and provinces, 100% of the elected members of the community councils, 62 districts, there is at least one woman among the three village leaders.
- Cambodia has ratified the Optional Protocol to the CEDAW Convention.

Factors contributing to this progress include, but not limited to, the following:

- High political commitment and leadership of the Prime Minister, who has set gender targets and gender considerations in all key sectors of the Cambodian National Strategic Development Plan.
- The Rectangular Strategy of the Royal Government of Cambodia states that women are the backbone of the economy and the society, and key elements of gender-responsive budgeting have been introduced and gender mainstreaming in economic management process.
- A comprehensive and innovative gender mainstreaming system at the central government level and the sub-national levels. The Ministry of Women's Affairs and the Cambodia National Council for Women are leading government departments.

technical working groups on gender (TWG-Gender), which includes NGOs, Gender mainstreaming action groups have been established in their relevant ministries.

- The implementation of the five-year strategic plan of the Ministry of Women Affairs has contributed to strengthen gender equality and the empowerment of women... Through our Cambodia Gender Assessment and gender responsive national statistical survey and census instruments we now have a more solid evidence base for gender analysis and decision-making...

While remarkable progress has been achieved in the ministry of women affairs obstacles remain in bridging gender equality gaps in all sectors of women

- Further capacity development and commitment awareness raising on women's rights and equal status is still central to implementation of many of the policies, laws and strategies. Although changing gradually, traditional gender stereotypes still persist.
- Despite clear government and development partner policies on gender equality, there is still a need to cultivate commitment and raise the awareness of the importance of gender equality in all sectors of women's development. Continued efforts are necessary to strengthen accountability, justice and law of women's right, especially in relation to legal protection of women and girls, and in scaling up resources for victims, in particular in cases of domestic violence, human trafficking.
- Low completion rates, especially the high drop out rate of girls in education, actions for youth, especially young women, to acquire training and professional skills, whether through employment and self-employment requires urgent attention.
- There is a lack of trust

The Royal Government of Cambodia recognises these challenges measures have addressed them, in cooperation with the UN and other Member States. Women's health and rights are important as the benefits extend beyond the woman herself to her family, community and nation. The sustainable development of a country requires action to end discrimination against women and girls.

The Royal Government of Cambodia looks forward to continued productive cooperation with the UN and other Member States present here today for the promotion of gender equality, and the empowerment of women.

Thank you for your attention.
