

Due to situation that Iraq went through in past four decades that included wars, violence, economic sanctions and terrorism, generated the phenomena of violence in Iraq community including the Kurdistan Region. A number of incidents began to raise the public opinion and a source of danger to the Iraqi families in general and women in particular.

The new Iraqi Constitution guaranteed the protection of the family in Article 29 and it considered it the foundation of society and it obligated the all the branches of Government to protect it.