

defined the varied forms of women's participation in the social, employment, political and public spheres of life.

2. Bearing available resources in mind, the Russian Federation has taken legislative and administrative measures designed to advance the status of women, mitigate and mitigate the effects of crisis situations, directly aimed at protecting the rights and interests of women and establishing equality of opportunity between men and women was a result of the democratic forces society.

During the period under consideration, a number of decrees of the President improving the status of women in decision-making at all levels. The Russian Federation approved the Guidelines for the Advancement of Women in the Russian Federation, which define the basic areas of women's rights in decision-making at all levels, protecting the health of women in the job market, violence against women.

Strategic goals contained in the Guidelines,

Advancement of Women and the expansion of 2000 was drawn up, and adopted in the Government.

Monitoring the implementation of the measures.

Characterized by significant strengthening of the legislative and executive branches of the constituent implementation of the measures.

in society and increasing their role in the Government of the Russian Federation.

Advancement of Women in the Russian Federation, calling for special concern at all levels, ensuring equal rights for women, violence against women.

For the implementation of the National Plan of Action for the Advancement of Women in the Russian Federation by the Year 2000, the Russian Federation is monitored and specified in the National Plan.

The period 1995-1997 was characterized by significant strengthening of the roles of the organs of the legislative and executive branches of the Russian Federation.

Measures are being taken to develop the system of social services for families with children and for children so as to expand the range of social services offered with a view to the prevention and alleviation of critical life situations; this should help strengthen the institution of the family and contribute to a more even division of family responsibilities and the protection of the interests of the individual.

Federal special-purpose programmes incorporating measures to improve the situation of women are being formulated and carried out. These include the Federal special-purpose programme to promote employment of the female population, the Federal programme "State support for small-scale entrepreneurship in the Russian Federation", the Federal programme of social reform in the Russian Federation 1996-2000, "Within the framework of the Presidential programme "Development of the Children of the Russian Federation" and "Development of the system of social service institutions for families and children who have found themselves in a difficult life situation".

The reporting period is characterized both by the continued development of the network of social service institutions which by the beginning of 1999 had increased by the emergence of new specialized social service institutions - the Crisis Centres for assistance to women who have found themselves in a difficult life situation.

At the beginning of 1999, Crisis Centres for assistance to women were functioning in six Regions of the Russian Federation, and in 1998 over 5,000 women and over 1,000 families received help. In addition, 32 centres to assist battered women are in operation in the Russian Federation, organized by non-governmental organizations and working in close contact with the appropriate state services.

Family planning services continue to be developed, its main aim being to reduce the incidence of HIV/AIDS, to improve the reproductive health of the population and the reproductive health of the population. The services also carry out education for adolescents.

which are being carried out - there is a trend towards a decline in induced abortion has fallen by nearly no quarter.

tional measures

lished in the Russian Federation to for men and women and the in all branches of authority in the legislative and executive at the level of the constituent parts of the Russian Federation.

3. (a) National machinery has been established in the Russian Federation to ensure equal rights and equal opportunities, elimination of discrimination against women in the Russian Federation, including the President and other authorities, both at the federal level and at the regional and local levels.

Financial and just

The Commission for Women, the Family and Demography, attached to the Office of the President of the Russian Federation, is a collegial advisory body for the formulation and coordination of State policy for achieving equal rights and opportunities for women, and for improving the status of women, family, upbringing, the family, and solving demographic problems in the Russian Federation.

The Committee on Women, Family and Youth was established at the second session of the State Duma (the lower house of the Federal Assembly of the Russian Federation).

In order to strengthen the national machinery for ensuring equal rights and equal opportunities and eliminating all forms of discrimination against women, and taking into account the recommendations of the final documents of the Fourth World Conference for Women, the Government of the Russian Federation has a task of establishing the National Commission for the Protection of the Rights of Women and the Elimination of Discrimination against Women. The task is to coordinate the efforts of the Federal Executive Power, the constituent parts of the Russian Federation, the mass media, public organizations, and other bodies and agencies of the executive power, and the executive power of the constituent parts of the Russian Federation in the formulation and coordination of State policy for achieving equal rights and opportunities and eliminating all forms of discrimination against women, and for improving the status of women in the Russian Federation. The Commission is headed by the Deputy Chairman of the Government of the Russian Federation.

The Government of the Russian Federation is paying a great deal of attention to the development of women's rights. In 1997, a conference entitled "Women and development: rights, reality, prospects" was held.

Conferences devoted to consideration of issues of the status of women having, among others, and "Women for social security and stable development" were held, entitled: "Women in political activities of women and men are more and more frequently "Seminars". In 1998, the following seminar on the policy of equal opportunities for women and men, principles and programmes of the European Union and the promotion of employment and equal rights for women in health of independent states.

women's newspapers and magazines has increased from of women is present to some degree in nearly all social or cultural and educational classes. There and opportunities for men and women to live, the welfare of children and families, and the health of pets and mammals.

115FS believe, however, that publications concerned with defining place of women in society and training the stereotypical concepts of or no more than 2.75% of female mothers as a rule utilise their women and for women appearing in the Russian press carried with criminal situations involving violence against women to advice on housekeeping.

1995, with magazines and newspapers for LGBT reading and news. There are supposed to be 15-18 topical issues of the "LGBT Movement". The work of legislative and executive bodies, the preparation for the improvement of the situation of LGBT people in Russia. These publications include the magazine "Lesopress", "Women of Russia", which has been published since 1995, "Russia and Tolerance" established in 1996, the magazine "Lesopress", "Women's rights in the Russian federation", "Lesopress", "Homos", "Ozor", and "Dreyvukha" (1999).

Digitized by srujanika@gmail.com

the per cent of women in the civil service held managerial posts in 1997 were elected to the first State Duma of the Federal Assembly of the Russian Federation; 26.6% women in the second State Duma.

A more appropriate representation of women in the formulation of state policy was reflected in a decree of the President of

The Business Page

The need to and implementation

the Russian Federation "On enhancing the role of women in the system of state power organs of the Russian Federation and state power organs of the constituent parts of the Russian Federation".

The measures included in the decree are designed to improve the participation of women in all spheres of the life of society and above all in the management of affairs and decision-making.

In order to implement the decree of the President of the Russian Federation "On enhancing the role of women in the system of federal organs of state power and local self-government", the following measures have been drawn up:

- the establishment of a system of procedure based on organizing the work on the establishment of a data bank on female employees as an integral part of the data bank of state statistical agencies;
- the preparation of a report on the procedure.

Ensuring equal rights in the labour market

In order to promote the employment of women and support the development of women's entrepreneurial initiatives, a federal special-purpose programme for the development of the population of the Russian Federation "A federal programme of State support to small businesses in the Russian Federation" has been established.

Regional employment-promotion programmes should include special measures to facilitate the employment of women, including:

- creation of job fairs for women; programmes for the social adaptation of the unemployed, first stand, practical skills for youth;

refresher training for unemployed women with young children;

the establishment of centres for the promotion of entrepreneurship;

vocational training for unemployed women is mainly directed towards women who have received vocational training. In 1994, 54.5 per cent of all women who had received vocational training were qualified for their second (related) occupation.

The Russian Federation "On education guarantees" guarantees free access to education regardless of sex, age, state of health, social origin, place of residence, ethnicity, party affiliation, citizenship of the Russian Federation, opportunity to receive free general and secondary education.

competitive basis, vocational education in State and municipal educational institutions meeting State educational standards.

Temporary measures limiting the access of women to a number of occupations remain in force, however. This is because the training of skilled workers in vocational training institutions is carried out in accordance with the list of occupations which meet the State standard for vocational training of the Russian Federation. Access to some occupations is restricted by a rule allowing vocational training for women and men only in occupations and f and work in which their employment is duly permitted; this rule is the standard regulations on the continuous vocational and economic specialized workers in the national economy approved by the State Committee of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR) Council of Ministers, the State Committee of the USSR Council of Trade Unions in June 1986.

In basic vocational training institutions, preferential treatment is given to students with higher salaries. Timetables are drawn up for attending classes, carrying out laboratory work, and taking tests and examinations.

Students of both sexes are educated together in the educational institutions of the Russian Federation. They follow the same courses, use the same textbooks, taught one same subject, using identical training techniques, teaching methods and teaching aids.

Using identical training equal opportunities are guaranteed by law.

The inadequate level of the quantitative and qualitative education system's financial resources, the fee-paying education in private institutions and the emergence of new private ones, is making it difficult for poor families to obtain education. As a result, well-off families

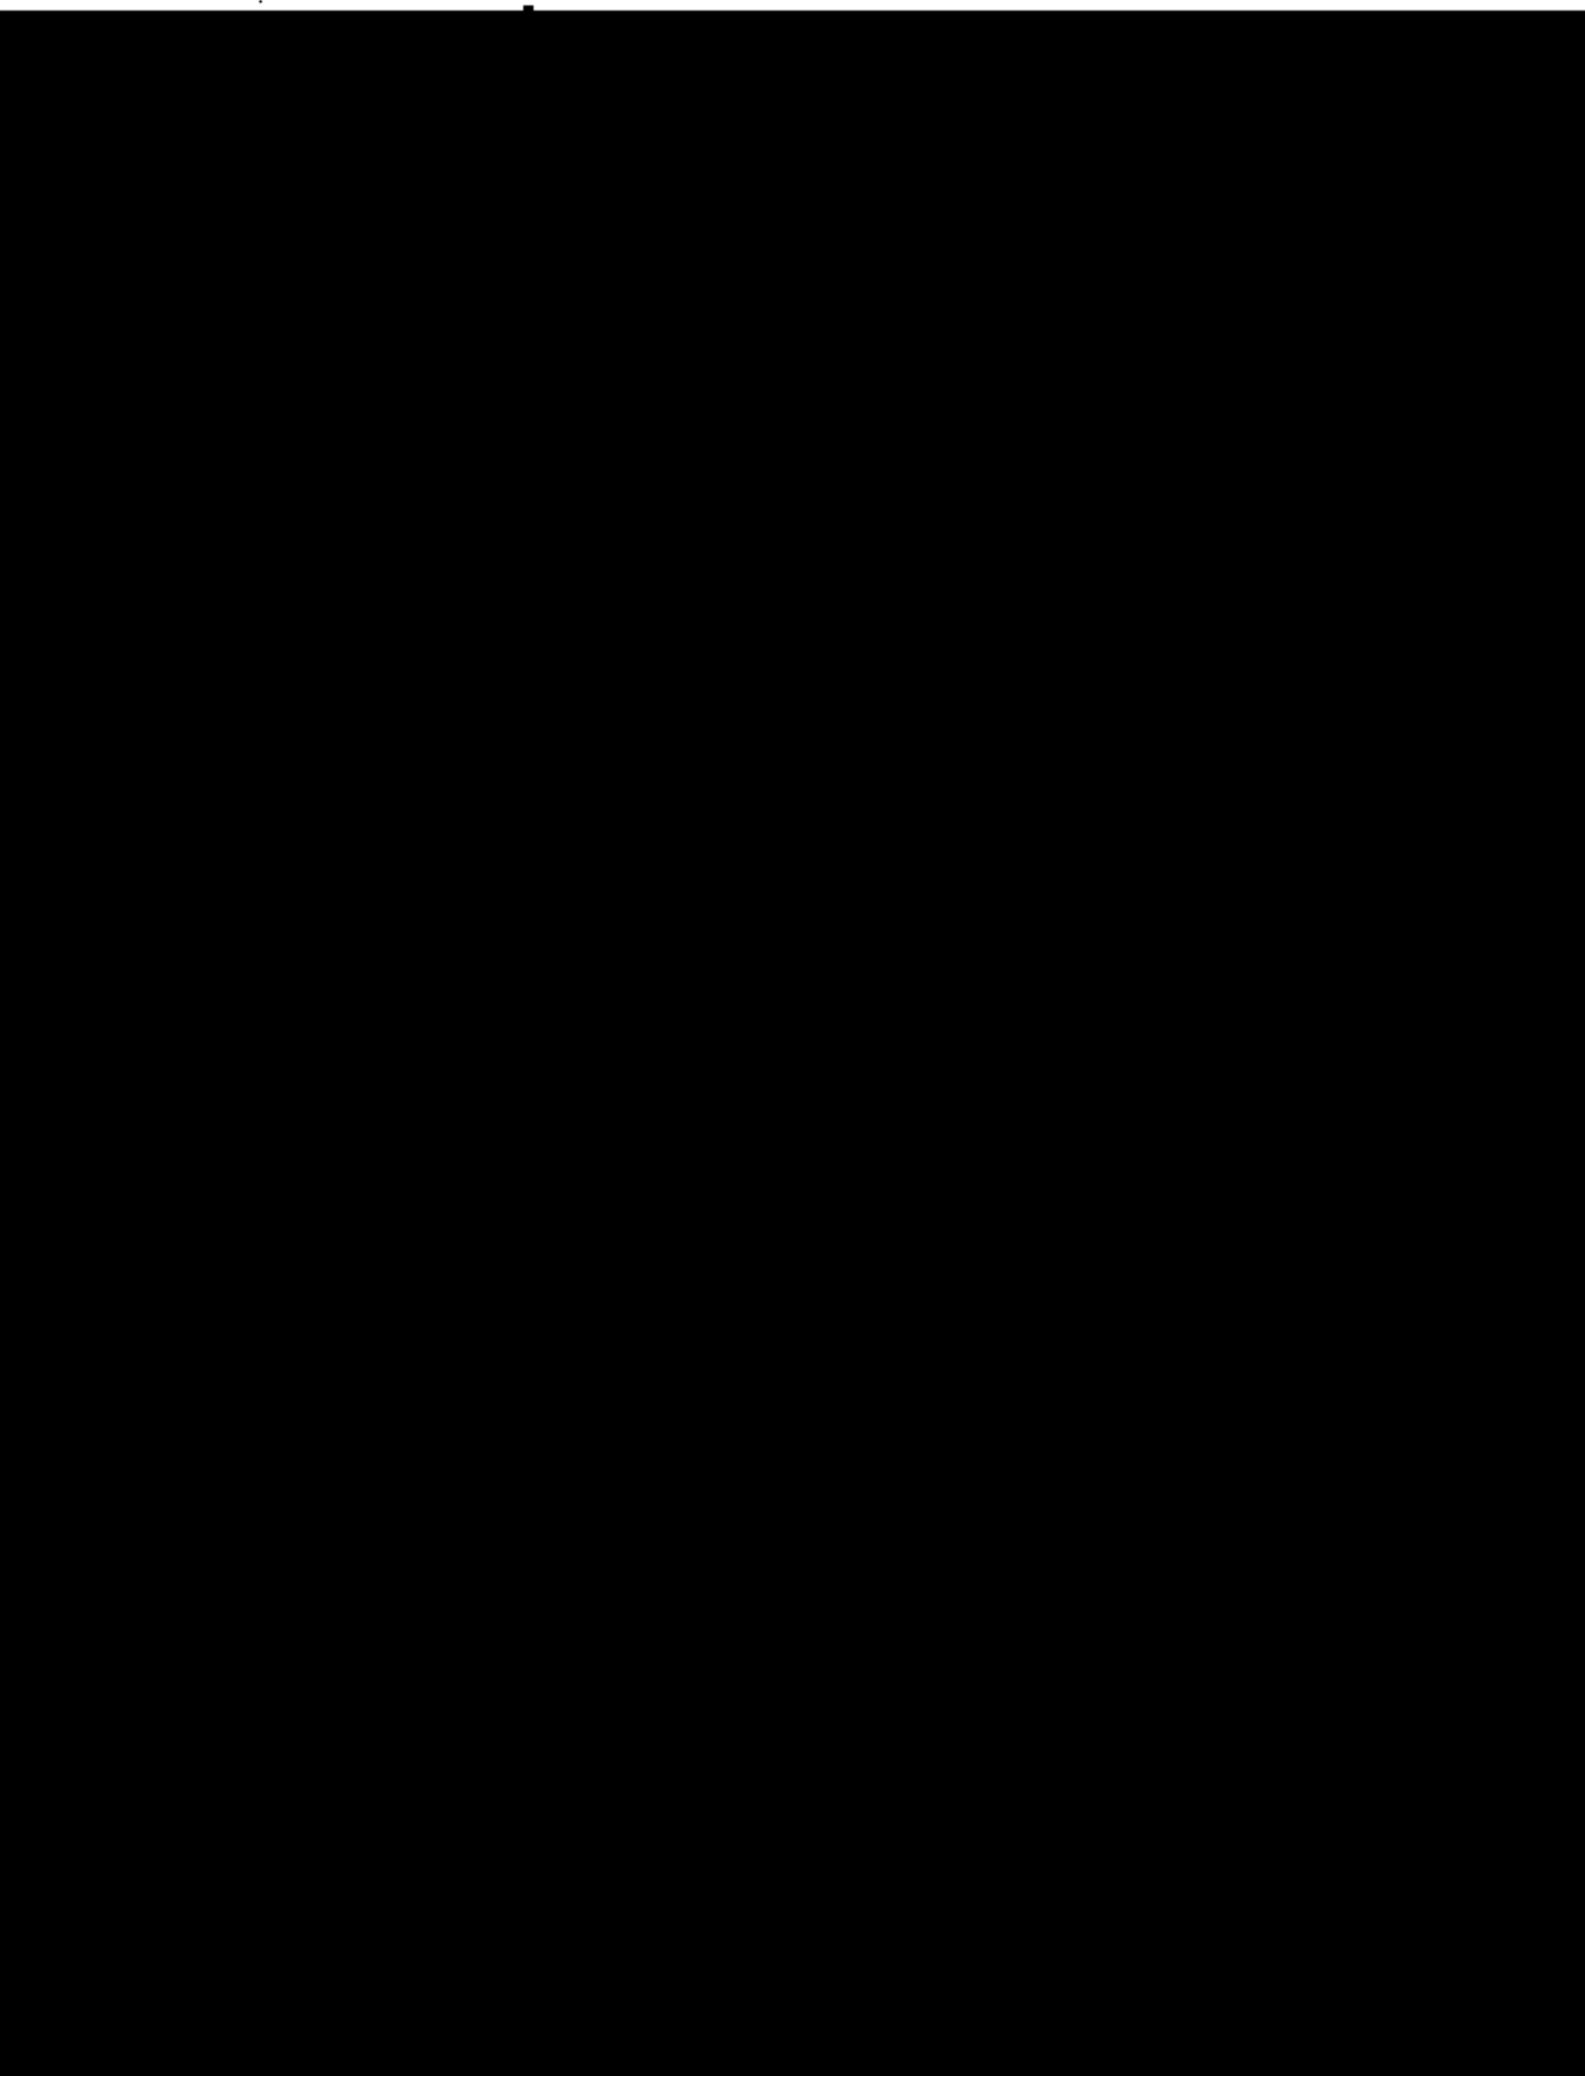

The financial difficulties increase in the number of schools, work under unfavorable conditions, the number of which grows steadily, and their which Russian families face are leading to an increase in the number of children forced to leave general education in the middle of the educational process. The Federal Government is taking steps to create conditions which will allow children to continue in education.

Health care for women

The Russian Federation adopted legislation to safeguard the health of pregnant women. Medical supervision in the pre-natal period has been raised to minimum. Maternity leave has been increased by 14 days for women.

In 1978-1997, the Russian Federation has adopted legislation to safeguard the health of pregnant women. Medical supervision in the pre-natal period has been raised to minimum. Maternity leave has been increased by 14 days for women.

High priority is being given to combating the spread of Immunodeficiency Virus, including amongst women. Towards this end, a special programme, "Anti-HIV AIDS", has been developed and funded.

Currently, a draft Government decree "On Urgent Measures to Prevent the Spread of HIV/AIDS among the Population of the Russian Federation" is being developed, which will provide for a number of measures to achieve the goals it sets out. Work on developing a special-purpose Federal programme was completed in 1998. A special-purpose Federal programme will be established by "Urgent Measures to Combat Tuberculosis in Russia" in 1999-2000".

Violence against women

In recent years, ill-treatment of women and violence against them have increased in our country. The number of women who are the victims of violence has risen. The percentage of crimes committed out of jealousy or as a result of a quarrel has risen. The percentage of crimes committed by men has also risen. The percentage of crimes committed by women has decreased from 7.8% in 1993 to 5.4% in 1998.

The number of cases of violence against women has increased from 1993 to 1998. In 1993 there were 1,200 cases of violence against women per 100,000 people, while in 1998 there were 21.5 per cent. Cases committed for the purpose of obtaining drugs have increased in number. However, over this period there was a noticeable drop in the number of cases of violence resulting in death. The number of rapes and attempted rapes has increased from 1993 to 1998.

Women in difficult life situations, including those who have suffered from violence, are provided with help by a network of social services. An expanding network of social services offices for women subjected to violence has been established. Between 1995 and 1998, the number of such offices for children has increased from 7 to 14. The number of these offices rose from 10 to 14 in 1998.

At the beginning of 1998, there were six women's crisis centres in operation, providing legal, medical, psychological, educational and other forms of help for women in difficult life situations. Also, Russia has 33 help centres for women, run by non-governmental organizations working in accordance with the provisions of state services.

At the American Conference on "Preventing Domestic Violence" held in Moscow in 1998, the experience of Russia and the United States of America" and the State and its law-enforcement organs, these provisions are often breached.

In 1998, a Russian conference against women - the other conferences held under the Federal Law "On Mass Information Media" specialized bro-

B. Existing obstacles to the advancement of women and measures taken to overcome them

In the Russian Federation, there are serious problems in the areas of women's vital activities which are cause for concern to the organs of State and to society as a whole.

The Social and Economic Survey of the Russian Federation in 1997 led to significant differences in the living standards of about 30 per cent of Russian women are unemployed, indigent and specific forms of social support--the incomes of this population are largely restricted to the social payments they receive and as they live below the poverty line.

parents bringing up minor children or caring for those who Since childhood, 24 per cent were women; women make up employed single parents and 76 per cent of parents with large levels of almost a third of Russian women were below the minimum The biggest concentration of workers with pay 50 per cent or um is in the budget's social sector, which employs 1.5 million people. Women's wages range from 65 per cent of men's in the machine industry (where 51 per cent of the workforce are women) to 82 per cent in agriculture, forestry and fisheries (where 70 per cent are women).

significantly worsened

The financial crisis which broke out in August is the already difficult social and economic situation. Sharp rise in inflation and declining the population's purchasing power since 1998 has not been matched by the living standards of Russian citizens have continued to fall. The role of women in decision-making and their representation in the highest offices of state does not correspond to the reality.

Asking the Role of Women in Organs of State Power of the Russian Federation, that the President and the Government measures to attract women to high office have yet been achieved in the credit and property rights.

At the very beginning of the beginning of the market, the way women were de facto excluded from displacement of women from the high-income sectors of the economy's adaptation to market conditions more significant, leaving their employees of the equal opportunities set out in the legislation between 1995 and Russian women single and regular category of the receive and as

Of unemployed have been invalid 92 per cent of families are women

The income needed to live a loss of that min

The financial crisis which broke out in August is the already difficult social and economic situation. Sharp rise in inflation and declining the population's purchasing power since 1998 has not been matched by the living standards of Russian citizens have continued to fall. The role of women in decision-making and their representation in the highest offices of state does not correspond to the reality.

The adoption of the Presidential Decree "On the system of the Federal Organs of State Power and the Constituent Parts of the Russian Federation" that the Government acknowledged the need to develop a program for high office. However, no real attempt to solve this problem.

The inadequate access for women to financial institutions, financial and banking oriented transformation, privatization, and the economy are making women are significantly discriminated in the legislation

The trend in recent years towards a falling proportion of women in sectors such as commerce, catering, lending, finance and insurance, which used to be considered the sectors in which women predominated numerically, can be explained by the fact that these sectors are experiencing the fastest wages' growth and, correspondingly, displacement of women.

Elements of gender-based discrimination in employment persist.

Scale labour inspections show that violations of the legislation on women's employment are occurring on a massive scale. Over a nine-month period in 1998, Russian Labour Inspectors conducted more than 5,000 special-purpose checks, discovering and rectifying 20,600 breaches of the legislation on employment and labour protection for women.

The Russian State Statistics Committee has conducted a survey of the number of industrial accidents, occupational diseases, social and economic factors of social injuries and working conditions in the working environment. This survey is organized every year.

In workplaces where women work, there is a lack of attention to the creation of a safe working environment. The major problem remains of getting women out of such work. It must be said in hand with an "occupational" system of selection of additional jobs. A provision is made to solve this problem in the National Strategy for the Development of the Russian Federation for the Year 2000.

During 1998, a substantiation of the long-term goal of heavy industry work in unhealthy or hazardous conditions, the constituent parts of the Russian Federation engaged in a certification exercise for workplaces where conditions are unhealthy or hazardous. Plans (programmes) were then developed for relocating women from such work and providing them with retraining and job placement (implementation begins in 2000).

Despite the steps being taken by the Government, between 1995 and 1997 there was a deterioration in women's health. The number of normal births increased and the number of abnormal deliveries grew, as did morbidity. Injuries to pregnant women, anaemia, circulatory problems and late pregnancy toxæmia, the number of women with hypertension, those suffering from diabetes and other disabilities tripled.

With the rise in chargeable public services, the right of women to health and education, the realization of their constitutional rights to free medical care and medical treatment thereby being significantly impeded. Sixty-three per cent of all consumer service enterprises are outside the state sector, sixteen per cent of medical facilities and 42 per cent of pharmacies have remained at the state level. In the Russian Federation 35.6% of the provision of chargeable services in the health system is increase. In that connection, the relevant parts of the Russian Federation are implementing measures to provide full support for specific population groups such as women.

The education system is characterized by the development of alternative forms of instruction, including fee-paying education, which may be provided by either state or private educational structures.

Fee-paying education has shown a significant increase in recent years.

In 1987-1988, educational services provided by the private sector accounted for over 40 percent of all students in secondary schools.

The Russian Federation has ratified International Labour Organization Convention No. 156 concerning Equal Opportunities and Equal Treatment for Men and Women Workers: Workers with Family Responsibilities.

A system of measures to combat discrimination against women has been developed.

As a result of actions taken to increase the availability of pre-natal and post-natal services, the number of abortions has been reduced by nearly 40%.

Vocational training programmes for the unemployed are being drawn up and put into practice, with priority accorded to the vocational training of women with minor children.

Efforts are being undertaken to ensure the equal participation of men and women in the holding of public office.

Social partnership between state structures and non-governmental women's organizations is being promoted with a view to tackling the problems of improving the status of women.

Plan of action for improving the status of women will continue to be implemented with a view to promoting the employment of married women who are sole breadwinners, in which both parents are unemployed, assisting women's initiatives, and developing a network of specialized institutions for women and children.

Women will continue to be implemented, providing support for their families and for the promotion of women's business.

As a result of discussions in the Commission on improving the status of women, the Government of the Russian Federation regarding progress in the national plan of action for improving the status of women was held in society in the period up to the year 2000. A decision on enhancing the need for revision and updating of the plan. Proposals made by state bodies and non-governmental organizations for broadening the national plan will serve as a basis for the elaboration of a new plan to improve the status of women in the long term.

At this meeting, the need for implementing the strategy for enhancing the status of women was taken into account. It was received from the scope of the strategy for enhancing the status of women.

COMMONLY USED TO EVALUATE THE PROGRESS MADE IN THE DEVELOPMENT PROCESS

1996	1997	--- 1998
and birth rate

147 107.4	146 739.4	146 739.4
69 029.0	68 823.6	68 823.6
78 108.2	77 722.9	77 722.9
107 347.4	107 082.6	106 841.2
50 199.7	49 973.6	50 325.6
57 227.7	57 108.9	57 345.7

1995	Population
Number of inhabitants
Total population
Men and women	147 608.9
Men	69 288.7
Women	78 320.1
Urban population	107 671.4
Men	50 325.6
Women	57 345.7

Housing provision and environment

	Unit of measurement	1995	1996	1997	1998
Average housing provision measured by total area per inhabitant	m ²	18.1	18.1	18.6
Number of persons living in one room*
Dwellings equipped with amenities and services
71	71	72	73	73
66	67	67	67	67	Sanitation
59	56	57	57	57	Hot water
68	69	70	70	70	Central heat
69	65	69	69	69	Gas
29	16	16	16	16	Electric stor
166	100	100	100	100	Electric light
Total population

Amount of land under cultivation per education

	1995	1996	1997	1998
Literacy rate among the population aged 15 years and over, percentage	96.4	97.0	97.0	97.0
Men	98.5	98.5	98.5	98.5
Women	97.1	97.1	97.1	97.1
Literacy rate among the population aged 15 to 24 years, "Percentage"	99.7	99.7	99.7	99.7
Men	99.9	99.9	99.9	99.9
Women	99.8	99.8	99.8	99.8

percentage of pupils admitted to the first day schools providing general education completion of third (sixth) grade

percentage of pupils admitted to the first day schools providing general education completion of third (sixth) grade

According to data from the 1994 population micro-census.

Gender equality in the field of

	1996	1997	1998
	49.8	49.8	49.8

Proportion of boys among pupils attending day schools providing general education, percentage

49.8

	1996	1997	1998
	4.7	11.8	23.3
	10.0	12.2	13.6
	11.3	11.5	13.0
	57.6	54.9	52.9
	63.9	60.9	58.9
	51.9	49.5	47.6

Unemployment rate,^{a,b} percentage

4.5

Men

11.7

Women

11.3

Employment rate,^{a,b} percentage

58.6

Men

65.0

Women

52.6

Percentage of total numbers of employed persons

Fired workers

Men

Women

Self-employed

Men

Women

by type of activity of the main employer

In agriculture

in construction

in commerce and in the services

Economy

	Unit of measurement	1995	1996	1997	1998 ^a
GDP	Billions of rubles ^b	1 565 025.8	2 200 225.3	2 562 597.8	2 684 510.5 ^c
Per capita GDP	Millions of rubles ^d	10 699.4	14 892.6	17 395.7	18 273.5 ^e

Income and poverty levels(rubles per month)^f

1995	1996	1997	1998
515.4	530.0	575.7	568.6
24.7 ^g	23.1	20.8	23.8

- ^a Provisions, data.
- ^b Billions of rubles.
- ^c Thousands of rubles.
- ^d Based on 1998 prices.